Fire Warden Bert Werder Issues Plea To Save Butano Forest

County Fire Warden Bert L. Werder this week had voiced a new plea to save the 8000-acre Butano Forest which lies in the wilderness area between the state's Big Basin Park and San Mateo County's Memorial Park. In a speech before the Redwood City Exchange Club last night, Werder said plans are in the making for a new campaign to take the timber area off the market.

"Butano is one of the last stands of Redwoods left south of San Francisco," Werder pointed out. "It is only an hour and a half from San Francisco. We're going to do something to try to save this forest, and we've got to do it this year."

Werder said the unified support of Bay Area counties would be sought to preserve the forest.

Plans for the purchase of the forest area by the county reached a climax in 1939 when the $300,000 proposition was the subject of controversy between the board of supervisors and County Executive Frederick Peterson. Peterson prevailed and the supervisors abandoned the proposal.

Recalling early days in the Redwood City when forests, streams and bay marshes abounded with wild life, Werder said the lesson of the past should convince us that we must save what we have.

He recalled the days when his father, who came to Redwood City in 1872, made his living in Winter by commercial duck hunting.

In 1872, he said, Redwood City's transportation was almost entirely by boat and team. Remnants of Finger's Landing near the present radio station east of Bayshore Hwy. are still visible. The slough was 20 feet deep then and boats hand-winched their ways to the landing. The city's embarcadero was crowded with steam schooners, barges, stern wheelers and other vessels unloading tanbark for the tanneries and loading lumber, grain and other supplies for San Francisco.

"The hills around Woodside have been cut over five times," Werder declared, "three times within my memory. That was the source of San Francisco's fuel, cord wood. There was no gas or oil in those days."

Four and six-horse bell teams brought in cord wood and shingles to the Redwood City lumber yards for shipment, and Werder recalled that the sound of hundreds of bell teams as they arrived in the afternoon and left in the early morning was a characteristic of the city in those days.

The city was a thriving commercial center. The Coastside, Werder said, had more land under cultivation in the old days than it has now. Once Half Moon Bay's chief product was potatoes, all for the San Francisco market.

With the coming of the railroad and the automobile and the denuding of the hills, all this was changed. Houses crowded the area where Werder once shot cotton tails and doves. The streams in which he fished dried up. The ducks vanished, the giant sturgeons have gone, the shellfish were driven away by oil.

"We fished, we shot, we hunted, we cut, we destroyed," Werder recalled. "Now we are reaping the harvest. We must preserve what we have left."

He warned that Santa Cruz Lumber Co. has purchased everything in the Pescadero Creek area, and that eventually the Butano will be cut unless it is preserved for public use. He asked the Exchange Club to support any program which may be developed to save the Butano.

Werder was introduced by Francis Tinney.

PLEADS GUILTY

Raymond F. Long, 21, of 525 Fuller St., this week pleaded guilty bebore Judge Edw. J. Ryan, sitting for Judge Edw. I. McAuliffe, to furnishing alcoholic beverages to three minors on Sept. 2. Sept. 7 at 10 a.m. was set as the time for sentence.

Early in the 19th century, the center of the tea industry shifted from China to India, Ceylon and the Netherlands East Indies.

It is estimated there was a total of 1,725,000 marriages in the U. S. in 1943.

Body of Man Found Near Pescadero

Body of a man whose identity had not been learned by county authorities here this week was found this morning near the California Shingle Mill between Saratoga Gap and Pescadero. The man died of natural causes, Coroner William F. Crosby's office reported.

The Saratoga Gap ranger station informed the coroner's office of the finding of the body, which was to be taken this afternoon to Santa Cruz for funeral arrangements. Dep. Coroner Lewis Franklin and Chief Dep. Sheriff Walter Moore and Dep. Sheriff Adolph Waldeck investigated the death.

Campaign To Halt Roadsign Defacing

Continued defacing of road signs in San Mateo County brought warning this week from County Engineer M. A. Grant that those caught destroying this property would be subject to severe penalties.

Explaining that the San Mateo County Traffic Safety Commission is ready to take drastic action in cases where people are proved to be damaging signs purposely, Grant said the California State Automobile Assn. has offered a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone caught defacing or destroying this property.

3000 Persons Attend Sequoia Dog Show; St. Bernard Wins Top Prize

More than 3000 persons attended the dog show sponsored by the San Mateo Kennel Club at the Sequoia High School campus Sunday in which more than 700 entries, representing nearly 100 breeds of dogs, were shown.

Judged best dog in the show was a St. Bernard named "Mountain Ranger," and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jarvis of San Francisco.

"Frosty Morn of Meander," a whippet owned by G. H. Hooft of Redwood City, was judged best hound in the show.

An English cocker spaniel named "Lady Sheila of Aguajito," whose owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poole reside in Redwood City, placed third in the entire group and was named best English cocker in the show.

The best sporting dog in the show was a cocker spaniel, "Hodges High Cloud," entered by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walsh of Los Angeles.

Adjudged best terrier was "Fox Hill's Maurader," a kerry blue terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Fox of Piedmont.

Mrs. Charles Clark's toy poodle, "Le Petit Seigneur de Muriclar," received the award for the best toy dog entered in the show. Mrs. Clark is from San Francisco.

The best non-sporting dog in the show was an English bulldog, "Champion Bragsman Buckshot Golden Boy," owned by Mrs. M. C. White of Oakland.

Police Chief C. L. Collins presented the trophies to the winners of the show which was the first nation-wide dog show to be held in Redwood City.

A complete list of San Mateo County prize winners will be announced tomorrow.

City May Put Land Purchase On Ballot

Before a packed chamber, the Redwood City City Council Tuesday took first action on a second major postwar plan—purchase of 107 acres on Bayshore Hwy. for $107,000 to be resold to prospective new industries in the postwar period.

The council indicated approval of a procedure to place the proposed plan before the voters in a special election. The action of last night was not binding however and merely provided City Atty. Paul A. McCarthy with instructions to draw up necessary papers and present them for the council's study at the meeting of Sept. 18.

If a resolution is passed, a special city election combined with but not included in the regular Nov. 7 ballot will be held. A two-thirds majority vote would be necessary to approve the purchase of the land.

The matter was brought under consideration following a report from Councilman Harold Anderson speaking as chairman of the city's industrial committee. Anderson explained the committee's recommendation of the purchase, stating that through the land the city could offer a site for any industry proposing to establish here at a definite price ($1000 an acre) without the potential danger of a private owner of the property "upping" the price and possibly driving the proposed industry out of this area.

Councilman Floyd D. Granger asked City Atty. Paul A. McCarthy if the city had the right to purchase property outside of the city limits and was answered in the affirmative.

The city has already acquired a $1 option to buy the property which is the former O'Dea property west of the Bayshore Hwy. and southeast of the National Motor Bearing Co. It extends 1000 feet south of the Red Feather Products, Ltd., plant and is now owned by Abraham Frank, who gave the city the option to buy.

If the council should approve the appearance of the issue on the special election ballot, and the voters sustain the proposal, the city would be obligated to buy one-fifth of the land each year for five years according to terms in the option.

Ferris W. Miles, president of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, appeared at the meeting and spoke in behalf of the proposal.

The only objection voiced last night was by Councilman C. C. Armstrong who questioned the advisability of placing this purchase proposal on the ballot at the same time as the $998,000 postwar building program which is slated to come before the voters on the regular ballot.

"This purchase plan will stand on its own legs," was Councilman Anderson's answer. Anderson went on to state that there were already several industries in the offing, only waiting for the war's end and for a logical site.

The motion to instructing McCarthy to take the initial steps in the initiative procedure was made by Anderson, seconded by Councilman Evans Fletcher and passed unanimously.

8-Year-Old Boy Dies In Attempt To Save Mother

The Peninsula remained free from fatal automobile accidents over the three-day Labor Day weekend but train mishaps had caused the death of one man in the north end of the county and the death of an eight-year-old boy in Palo Alto.

His frantic efforts to snatch his mother from the rails in front of the Del Monte Limited as it rushed by Santa Rita Ave. in Palo Alto Sunday morning cost Henry Thurston Brown, 8, of 211 Melville Ave., his life and failed to save her from critical injuries.

At the Palo Alto Hospital today the mother, Mrs. Kathryn Brown, 43, was being treated for a skull fracture, lacerations, bruises, shock, and the fracture of her left arm. The right arm was so badly mutilated that it had to be amputated. Her condition was described as "fair."

Her son was killed instantly when he was struck by the lunging northbound locomotive. His mutilated remains were scattered along the railroad right of way for a distance of 210 feet.

Information obtained by Insp. L. S. Lawrence and Officer Ben Hickey of the Palo Alto Police Dept. indicated that the wheels of the locomotive all but severed Mrs. Brown's right arm and the pilot hit her head, the blow apparently knocking her between the rails, for the train passed over her without causing further major mutilations.

From Engineer Samuel E. Sheperd, San Jose, and Fireman Milton J. Lynn, San Francisco, police obtained all the information available concerning the tragic mishap. Sheperd reported seeing the woman and the boy on the rails, but was unable to stop the locomotive in time to avoid the collision, which occurred at 10:52 o'clock. When Fireman Lynn noticed him the boy was in the clear but immediately before the impact he rushed onto the tracks in an apparent attempt to save his mother.

Police learned that Mrs. Brown and her son had walked along the right of way to a point about 700 feet northwesterly of the California Ave. crossing and had parked their bicycles against the fence, prior to the fatal accident.

The Brown boy was born May 12, 1936 in San Francisco and named for his uncle, Henry Thurston Brown, who was killed in World War I. The middle name is also for his grandfather, the late Dr. William Thurston Brown, a teacher at Menlo School and Junior College for a number of years.

He had one sister, Jennifer, who is 16.

Both his father and mother attended Stanford with the 1923 class. Mr. Brown is connected with the bond house of Heller, Bruce and Co. in San Francisco.

Services for the boy were held today at the Tinney Funeral Home.

Frank Castropel, about 50, 266 Mission St., San Francisco, car inspector for the Southern Pacific Co., was killed instantly Saturday night at 7 o'clock when he fell while inspecting freight cars in the Southern Pacific yards at Bayshore, just south of the San Francisco city limits, and was run over by four cars. His body was cut in two.

Fernando Martinez, 32, 228 Gratten St., San Francisco, a carpenter who fell off a roof at Metal Thermit Co. in South San Francisco Thursday, died at South San Francisco Hospital late Saturday afternoon.

R. P. McDermott, 90, of 275 Fulton St., received lacerations of the scalp as a result of his being hit by an automobile on Arguello St. near Marshall St. yesterday at 4:42 p.m., Redwood City Police Dept. reported today.

The automobile, driven by William Hamilton, 35, of 833 Cole St., San Francisco, was being backed from the curb when McDermott was hit, police said.

The injured man was treated at the Palo Alto Hospital.

Thrown from his motorcycle in a field near the San Carlos Rd. east of Bayshore Hwy. Sunday afternoon, E. J. McCann, 21, of 1930 Hopkins Ave., was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a broken collarbone, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Minor injuries were suffered by three Redwood City residents and a San Francisco couple when their cars collided in a headon collision Sunday on El Camino Real 1½ miles south of Mountain View.

Admitted to the Palo Alto Hospital were Dixie Greene of 143 Birch St., and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson of the same address. Both incurred ankle injuries. Emergency treatment was given Mr. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of 2488 21st Ave., San Francisco, but they were not hospitalized.

California Highway Patrol officers who investigated the crash were uncertain how the accident occurred because of the conflicting reports. The Johnson car was traveling north and the Browns were southbound when they met in the middle lane.

Canneries Plan Use of Port

Officials of Santa Clara County canneries have expressed a willingness to use the Port of Redwood City's facilities after the war when the port is again available for civilian use, Port Mgr. A. A. Moran told port commissioners at a regular meeting of the commission Tuesday night.

Moran also stated that several large steamship companies, with offices in San Francisco, will bring their ships to the port in order to pick up the canned goods.

Warehouses for storing the products will be constructed as soon as it is feasible, since the money is available for construction, and plans are being drawn at present.

Emil Dehoff, who holds the lease for a boatworks at the Redwood City Yacht Harbor, appeared before the commissioners to answer charges that he is violating his lease. Dehoff assertedly did not keep his boatworks open for the repair of pleasure craft.

The commissioners heard a preliminary report from appraisers who are determining the value of the port in connection with negotiations on the navy lease of the property.

Final report from the appraisers will be submitted to the commission at the next regular meeting, Sept. 19.

Members of the commission who were present at the meeting were Ralph Morser, president, Elmer Horrell, John E. McCarthy, and Edmund Scott.

LETTERS HOME frequently praise the cheapness of California's electricity and Natural Gas. We've had newcomers tell us they could scarcely believe their first bill. They say they realize that winters are warmer—but they realize also that rates out here are a lot less!

This is something for Californians to take pride in, for—unlike our climate—these low utility rates are something we've had a hand in ourselves. They're low because we made 'em that way. And we don't consider they've hit bottom yet!

During the past ten years, while living costs have gone up 27%, P. G. and E. has reduced the cost of electricity 24% . . . gas 31%.

City Council Proclaims Peace in Edgewood Rd. 'Battle'

The closely watched "Battle of Edgewood Rd." followed the same pattern as was suggested at a previous meeting of the city council when the council Tuesday instructed City Atty. Paul A. McCarthy to begin abatement proceedings against Mrs. Anna M. Rice but at the same time assuring Frank Rice, Mrs. Rice's son who represented her, that the council would "carry" the final action from agenda to agenda for the duration.

The issue was brought into the open when neighbors protested the fact that Mrs. Rice was conducting a boarding house for war workers at 226 Edgewood Rd. in the first class residential district. Other neighbors and friends immediately submitted a petition requesting that Mrs. Rice be permitted to continue her boarding house for the duration.

Last night the council agreed upon a procedure by which they have the abatement proceedings ready so that they may order Mrs. Rice to cease operation of the boarding house when the war ends. Mayor W. W. Hilton assured Rice in behalf of the council that no final action would be taken on the abatement proceedings until that time.

In one of the most vehement protests heard by the council in some months, 21 persons rose in protest to the granting of a restaurant license to Lars O. Anderson to operate a bar and restaurant on Woodside Rd. in the building formerly occupied by Cal's Place. The license to Cal's Place was revoked and the building has not been used since.

Several of the residents of that area spoke and asked the council to deny the permit.

After considerable debate, the council unanimously denied Anderson's application.

The council also denied the application of V. F. Bachar for a permit to grow flowers and vegetables for commercial purposes on the Bonelli Ranch property. A petition protesting issuance of a permit, signed by 75 residents of the area, was read by City Clerk Ralph Dodge.

First steps were taken towards the sale of the old library site after City Atty. Paul McCarthy had stated that the property had been deeded to the city from the Sequoia High School District in 1938 and that a clear title could be obtained. The council then agreed to offer the property for sale through sealed bids and appointed Lawrence Heiner as appraiser.

The ordinance fixing the 1944-45 tax rate was adopted.

McCarthy reported on a hearing on an application by Thornton Walter for a liquor permit at the Two Friends Cafe on El Camino Real held in the courthouse yesterday with E. A. McDonald as referee. Chief of Police C. L. Collins also was present and testified as to the number of "fracases" in the cafe during the past several months. The referee will now report to the Board of Equalization and the latter will decide whether the permit be granted or not, McCarthy explained.

The matter of assessment of the telephone company was placed on the agenda for further report from McCarthy.

City Mgr. Robert W. Mead reported that he requested Southern Pacific officials to provide a flagman at the Chestnut and Bayshore crossing and was informed that the company felt that the flashing light signals and the flood lights were sufficient. The matter was referred back to Mead with instructions from the council to discuss further the possibilities of providing a safer crossing with SP officials.

On motion by Councilman Floyd D. Granger the council voted to ammend the ordinance on carnivals and circuses to prohibit Sunday performances.

A suggestion to study the possibilities of stop signals at Grand and James was referred to the traffic study committee.

A study of methods to eliminate used car lots from El Camino Real was referred to the planning commission.

The city manager was asked to meet again with A. C. Argo, Sequoia High School superintendent in regard to control of traffic at the intersection of Broadway and El Camino during the school year.

Zasa Cook was granted a permit to operate a boarding house for five elderly women at 706 Arguello St. The residence is in the second residential district where boarding houses are permitted.

W. L. Meussdorffer was granted an extension to Oct. 12 to remove or repair his building at 1606 Main St.

Dance permits were granted to Yvonne Schlicktmann and Court Madrone 158. Permit to hold a bazaar was granted to the junior AWVS. A permit to hold a rummage sale was granted to the Rummageers of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

YOUTH ARRESTED

Raymond F. Long, 21, 525 Fuller St., was booked at the county jail here late Saturday afternoon for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Redwood City police reported he was believed to have supplied liquor to a minor.

A 16-year-old Redwood City boy was transferred from the jail to the juvenile home today following his arrest Saturday night by Redwood City police. He was booked for drunkenness. The boy gave his occupation as a laborer.

Here's how to make catsup and chili sauce!

SHADE your eyes and look real hard—and you can see the end of the tomato season! Now just glance in your pantry and count the bottles of catsup and chili sauce. The next step is to take advantage of the fresh tomatoes available now, so you'll have plenty of those good condiments for the winter and spring! (One happy fact: irregular or odd-sized tomatoes are fine for this use—another: putting up catsup and chili sauce is a relatively easy job.)

TOMATO CATSUP

- 3 large (about ¾ lb.) sweet red peppers
- 3 medium (about 1 lb.) onions
- 1 bud garlic
- 1 bay leaf
- 35 medium (about 10 lbs.) ripe tomatoes
- 2 tsps. salt
- 1½ cups vinegar
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 tsps. paprika
- 2 tsps. mustard seed
- 2 tsps. celery seed
- 1 tsp. whole cloves
- 1 tbsp. whole allspice
- 3 inches stick cinnamon

Wash vegetables. Remove seed cores from peppers. Grind peppers, onions and garlic in food chopper. Add to cut tomatoes, bay leaf and salt. Cook slowly in large kettle until tomatoes are soft, about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove bay leaf and sieve tomato mixture. Return to kettle and add vinegar, sugar and paprika, mixing well. Add remaining spices tied in a bag. Cook slowly until thickened and volume is reduced about one-half, about 2 hours, stirring frequently. Remove spice bag. Pour immediately into hot sterilized fruit jars, filling to top, and seal. Makes about 4 pints.

CHILI SAUCE

- 42 medium (about 12 lbs.) ripe tomatoes
- 10 medium (about 2 lbs.) onions
- 4 large (about 1 lb.) red sweet peppers
- 2 buds garlic (may omit)
- 1 large head celery
- 1 qt. vinegar
- 3 cups sugar
- 1 tbsp. whole allspice
- 1 tbsp. whole cloves
- 2 inches stick cinnamon
- 1 tbsp. grated nutmeg
- 2 tbsps. salt

Wash vegetables. Peel and chop tomatoes. Peel onions and remove seed cores from peppers; grind onions, peppers and garlic in food chopper. Combine with tomatoes in large kettle; cook slowly for 2 hours, stirring frequently. Add vinegar, sugar, spices tied in bag, and salt. Simmer about 1½ hours longer, stirring frequently. Remove spice bag. Pour into hot sterilized fruit jars, filling to top; seal at once. Makes 8 to 10 pints.

Nab Negro Sailor In Stolen Car

A Negro sailor from Treasure Island yho this week attempted to drive a stolen Coast Guard station wagon to Los Angeles got only as far as South San Francisco where California State Highway Patrol officers stopped him and took him into custody.

The sailor, Claude O. Smith, Jr., a cook, second class, in the U.S. Navy, assertedly took the station wagon from Battery and Sampson Sts., in San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

He told Capt. E. F. Cassell and Officer Henry Edwards of the highway patrol that he was driving to the Southern California city under orders from "Admr. Wright," but the officers, who were making a routine check of army and navy vehicles, became suspicious of his story and took him into custody.

Smith later admitted taking the automobile.

The sailor was already being held by the patrolmen when the San Francisco police reported the theft of the car at 3:25 p.m.

Smith, who told officers he wanted to visit his sister in Los Angeles, was being held in the county jail today, pending the arrival of San Francisco police who will return him to the city.

'Man Without Country' Gets Sentence

William Van Gastelen, 44, a "man without a country," this week was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Maxwell McNutt to six months in the county jail on a grand theft charge.

Van Gastelen withdrew a plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to taking in excess of $200 in money and personal property from the home of Viola Preston, 438 Winchester St., Daly City, on Apr. 3. A charge of burglary against him was dismissed upon recommendation of Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. A. S. Whitmore. He was given credit for two months he already has served in jail.

Whitmore said Van Gastelen was born in Holland and in World War I he served in the armed forces for the United States. Van Gastelen assumed he became a citizen and his citizenship in Holland was lost. He had traveled at sea for several years. Immigration officials have a "hold" on Van Gastelen, Whitmore said.

Await Washington Approval of Center

More than 125,000 children are being cared for in child care centers throughout the nation, federal government officials revealed today as Redwood City is awaiting word from Washington regarding its plans for an enlarged center at McKinley School.

Through the Lanham Act funds more than $32,000,000 has been made available for maintenance and construction of child care centers for the purpose of housing children of working mothers who would otherwise have no place to go during the daytime.

The Redwood City center is expected to house 60 children when the two units are completed. Until the work is finished, however, children will use part of the First Baptist Church facilities, Ruth Howarth, director of the local center, explained.

R.C. State Guard Plans Recruiting Drive

Two Redwood City men are among the 49 selected non-commissioned officers from California State Guard units throughout the state who have completed a week of training at Fort Cronkhite, Marin County. The local men are Sgt. David P. Oram and Sgt. Dennis W. Hopkins.

The course sressed instruction in military tactics, firing the .30 caliber rifle, .45 caliber submachine gun, bayonet, compass, road blocks, first aid, shelter tent and interior guard duty.

Brig. Gen. Ray W. Hays, adjutant general of the California State Guard, explained, "At no time in the history of California has there been such a vital need for a thoroughly disciplined, well-equipped, and properly trained force of state troops."

The Redwood City branch of the California State Guard holds two drill sessions each week at the Courthouse, under the direction of Capt. William H. Gilson.

A drive to develop an entire company from Redwood City alone has been started locally. Of 120 men in the San Mateo County battalion at present, nearly half are Redwood City men, Captain Gilson said.

Thursday, all Peninsula theaters will begin a general three-day recruiting drive and will display various types of state guard equipment.

Captain Gilson explained that volunteers are required to drill 2½ hours a week, and that extra training is voluntary. He added that uniforms and guns are furnished free. Sunday rifle range practice is open to all men.

Local enlistees have the choice of joining the San Mateo "B" Co., Redwood City "C" Co., Redwood City Supply and Service Co., Headquarters Co., or the County Medical Detachment.

Redwood City Native Sons, Daughters Plan To Join in Statewide Bond Drive

Redwood City will join Saturday in a statewide drive by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to celebrate California's 94th birthday by selling $600,000 in war bonds for the purchase of a B-29 bomber.

Native Sons from Redwood Parlor 66 who are in charge of the men's sale are George Solari, Phil Bozzo, and A. S. Liguori. Native Daughters from Bonita Parlor 10 include Agnes Casaretto, Dorothy Banks, and Martha Bernasque.

Assisting at the bond booth from 1 to 5 p.m., Saturday, are Lillian Locatelli, Ulrica O'Sullivan, and Thelma Locatelli. The booth will be set up in front of Territo's Market on Broadway, and a program will be presented by members of the two groups during the sale.

Among the groups sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters include care for homeless children, Boy Scout troop sponsorship, Arbor Day planting, California mission preservation, public speaking contests, Red Cross co-operation, maintenance of the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco, veterans welfare, co-operation in USO, Red Cross, and War Chest drives.
